Office of Legislative Counsel

Wednesday - 25 November
1959

1. Reviewed with William Bundy his reply to a questionnaire sent to him by the Jackson Subcommittee on National Policy Making Machinery. He indicated that Mr. Amory had reviewed his proposed answer. I suggested to Mr. Bundy that certain of the answers might raise a question in the minds of either the Defense people or State Department people that Bundy was speaking about matters that were not of concern to him as a CIA official. Since Bundy indicated he knew Dorothy Fossdick well, I suggested he might wish to discuss with her the matter of not making known Bundy's views on certain points to other individuals and simply use it as an aid in their consideration of the matter. Bundy agreed with this approach.

3. Russ Holt in the office of Senator Henry M. Jackson (D., Wash.) telephoned to inquire if we could furnish any examples of Soviet foreign language accomplishments. I indicated we would look into the matter and advise. Subsequently, I talked to [redacted] in Office of Training who said they should be able to assist and he would be back in touch.

4. [redacted] OSI, telephoned concerning the Jackson letter on Soviet nuclear testing. He indicated it would take possibly two weeks to prepare an appropriate reply and in view of the material involved it would require coordination and probably DCI approval. I alerted [redacted] that the material, since it would be Restricted Data, would be sent to the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy rooms in the Capitol. [redacted] suggested the Director be alerted to this.
